Sentiment in Favor of a Steam Roller.
The meeting of the Norway Board of Trade held on Tuesday evening was largely attended and a good discussion was given the good roads question.

The meeting was opened by President George L. Curtis. The opening speech told of the interest of the board in the matter of better roads and what had been done to date.

H. B. Foster, who is on the committee, read a letter from State Highway Commissioner Paul D. Sargent, in which Mr.
Sargent suggested that for our needs it would require a portable stone crushing plant unless there was an advance in the method of road building.

VOLUME XXXIX

Quarterly Meeting.

The fourth quarterly conference was held in the vestry of the M. E. church, Saturday evening, Jan. 11. Though an unfavorable time for business men, yet with the others they were there, saying by their presence, that God's business comes first.

The reports showed a marked increase in all departments of the church work.
The Norway M. E. church has abundantly shared this year in the prosperity with which Methodism has universally been blessed. At this meeting the pastor, Rev. C. A. Brooks, was unanimously invited to return for another year.

The rain Sunday morning did not keep the people away. An interested and enthusiastic audience filled the church and listened with much interest to the sermon by Rev. C. F. Parsons, Presiding Elder. There were three admitted into the church in full.

One hundred and eighteen remained for the Sunday school. This part of the church work is flourishing. The school has caught the spirit of enthusiasm, so prominent in the untiring labors of its superintendent, C. E. Brooks.

Rev. G. B. Hannaford found a congregation waiting for him at half past two in the afternoon. The people were willing to face the storm for the privilege of listening to this veteran in God's service.

The evening service though not largely attended because of the storm was of interest. Being assembled in one place with one accord, the power came which moved some to a decision for a Christian life.

The revival meetings opened Tuesday night with a spirit which speaks of victory. The vestry was filled to the first evening and it is expected that the auditorium will have to be opened before the services close. Rev. C. A.
Brooks, pastor and revivalist, has charge of the services. Come with us and we will do you good.

Pond, Tuesday, to attend a large reception. Wednesday, Mrs. Penfold went to Portland and Boston for a short stay.

George A. Briggs, who has been conking at Foster's lumber camp at Dixfield, came home as lumbering operations were suspended on account of lack of snow.

There was an exchange of preaching at the churches, Sunday morning. Rev. J.
W. Chesbro preached at the Methodist church, Rev. T. N. Kewley at the Congregational church and Rev. A. T. Mc-Whorter at the Baptist church.

Mrs. Vernon A. Walton had a sudden attack of appendicitis, Thursday, and was taken to the Central Maine General hospital at Lewiston in the afternoon and the operation was performed immediately upon her arrival. She is getting along well.

Troubles That Keep Half the Norway

Doctors Busy.

Half of the prescriptions the Norway doctors write are for troubles that result directly from a weakened stomach.

Strengthen the stomach muscles, increase the secretion of gastric juices, and you will find that common afflictions—indigestion, with its headaches, dizziness, depression of spirits, spots

before the eyes, nervousness, sleeplessness and general debility—have been overcome.

From now on build up the strength and health of the stomach with Mi-o-na tablets. You will soon find yourself strong and never know the meaning of indigestion.

If Mi-o-na did not have an unusually cumulative effect in stomach disorders, it could not be sold on the guarantee given by Frank Kimball, proprietor of the Noyes Drug Store, to refund the money

unless it does all that is claimed for it.

He gives an absolute, unqualified guarantee with every 50-cent box of Mi-o-na that the money will be refunded unless the medicine cures. He takes the whole risk, and you certainly can afford to get

Mi-o-na from them on this plan. 2-3

Deer on Ice Worse than Football.

"This game of football in the mud," said the old hunter and all-round sport, "reminds me a good deal of trying to catch a deer on glare ice. Did you ever try that? Well, if you want some sport that is sure to lead to a trophy, and to knife a deer on the ice and I guarantee you have all the fun and all the work you want at the same time.

"I'll never shall forget the time I saw two Indians try to kill a deer on the ice. It was a cold, raw day in February just following a big thaw and rain, and the ice was smooth as glass in most places with here and there a place where the slush and snow had formed shell ice, when a deer came out of the woods on the further shore from the island where we were and started across the ice to make the other shore of the river.

"The Indians saw the deer when he left the woods and they immediately set up a yell so that the deer wouldn't make for the shore, and they started out after him on the ice. One Indian ran down the shore and the other took after the deer. Well, sir, it was comical to see that deer go. The ice was so slippery and the deer's hoofs so smooth that they didn't take a grip on the ice at all and the deer's big jumps didn't amount to more than a rabbit's jumps would on land. The buck's feet flew sideways and he skated along at a great rate.

"Of course the Indian running behind and wearing moosehide soon caught up with the deer. He ran up on one side and tried to steer the buck in toward the shore where the other Indian was waiting. The buck couldn't turn if he wanted to, he didn't want to a little bit. The Indian on shore waited until the buck came abreast of where he was and then he started out on the run intending to jump on the buck's back and throw him. The Indian made his leap just as the buck slipped to one side and the Indian came down on the ice right side of the buck. The buck made one of those vicious side-wipes they sometimes make with their hoofs and he tripped that Indian's pants leg as fast as could be from pocket to ankle.

"It took the Indian off his feet and he went sliding over the ice. The other Indian made a jump then and got hold of the buck's horns. One of the horns broke short off and the Indian followed his mate. Those Indians were sent flying over the ice over the river and before they finally got the buck safely between them and closed in on him and threw him. Even then he was a dangerous customer, for his hoofs were flying so the air seemed to be full of them and every time they struck they cut like a knife.

"By the time those Indians had the buck's throat cut they were in pretty near as bad shape as the buck for their clothes were torn to ribbons and they had pieces of his skin flying about in the air where the buck's hoofs had hit them. Yes, sir, I tell you there are worse scrimmages than those you get into on football."

Duty of Children to Old People.

One of the things that should not be neglected, nor in all cases be regarded solely as a "duty" to be gotten rid of as quickly as possible and with the least expense and trouble, is attention to old people. If your parents are living, let them share in your life as far as they may and visit them whenever you can.

If you cannot visit them, at least send them the longest letter, or a loving message on a postal card. At the holiday season, send them a little remembrance. They will not be particular as to its costliness, for its chief value is in the "faded" eyes will be that it comes from the "boy" or "girl" that will always be one of the "children," no matter how the world may regard you.

Old people have few pleasures, as their interests are narrowed down by the infirmities of age, and they live more in the past than in the present; they look forward but a little way, and their dulled ears hear the sound of waves breaking upon an unseen shore far more distinctly than they do the roar of traffic or the blare of the battle music. Their world is not your world, but their lonely old hearts follow you, lovingly and longingly.

Their companionship may not interest you much, and their crudity may annoy your patience; but do not forget that their best years were given to caring for you, and it would be but small return for their long devotion to give them a few hours of your company, or a moment's share in your life.

Remember the riches of their love for you in the old time, you will not think it much to leave all your business and go back to help lay them away inside the Gates of Peace.

Remember, when they are still with you, how childishly happy your presence could make them, and—"Don't keep all the flowers for the funeral."—[Observer.]

Read Through Smoked Glass.

"There's room at the top, you know."

"Thank you. I prefer company."

"Halloo, Jack, old boy, writing home for money?"

"What are you taking so much trouble over, then? You've been fussing and fuming over it for the last two hours."

"I'm trying to write without asking for money."

"Do you mean to threaten me?"

"No. I thought you dared not."

"Sure thing. I don't want to scare you to death."

"Do you understand women?"

"Sure except when they sing. No one could understand them then."

"When I started in business I resolved never to tell a truth."

"And you kept your word?"

"Yes. Whenever I had any delicate business of that sort I hire an expert."

Doctors At Sea.

First Interns—Doctors, there's something wrong with the ship.

The Surgeon Commander—What's the nature of the attack?

First Interns—It appears to be an incision on the outer integument, sir. The lookout calls it a leak.

The Surgeon Commander—Never mind what the lookout calls it. Treat it with sterilized cotton and surgeon's plaster. If the symptoms do not abate report to me and I will arrange a consultation.

Mrs. Newbed—Isn't the bread line in a great city pathetic?

Newbed—Very. I suppose it is the only way those poor fellows can get any fit to eat.

Leaping Panther.

In the western part of Oxford county where the three towns adjoin, are five small lakes called the Five Kezars whose outlet is Kezar River, a branch of the Saco. About half a mile from the source of this stream in the town of Lovell is a cascade, where the water pours in a torrent into a deep basin thirty feet below the top of the falls, forming a considerable whirlpool as it strikes into the river's bed, which makes measurement of the depth of water at this place exceedingly difficult. The width of these falls is about twenty feet.

Westerly are several high hills or mountains, the highest of which being Sabatis mountain named for an Indian chief whose favorite hunting grounds were once in that vicinity and from its bold summit may be traced the little river for several miles. This region is sparsely settled and in their season affords good hunting and fishing.

Long after the coming of the white man, the tributaries of the Saco river were frequently visited by the dusky sons of the forest in search of what could be procured with gun and rod. Here they pitched their tents or built their camps, till, not the fish and game became scarce, but for the reason that their tribes had been broken up, their warriors scattered about or fallen by the hands of their bitter enemies, and that their race had withered from the land as the leaves from the autumn trees.

Perhaps Indian hunters had their reasons for periodically coming into the region. Who does not prize a visit to the scenes of one's youthful days and places hallowed with the tread of the feet of father and mother, brother and sister, and the frequent visits of the old warriors and grandmothers?

The tenacity with which the red men clung to their hunting grounds, shows that they were possessed of the same feeling of attachment for the places that gave them birth as other mortals. What other feeling could have caused the noted chief Paugus and his braves to fight their valiant battle with Capt. Lovewell and his men on the shores of the lake in Fryeburg which now bears the name of the white leader and where both sides made their last and greatest struggle.

The bullet of Chamberlain laid Paugus low, and though no one knows who was the slayer of Lovewell yet it was doubtless one who thought that he was fighting for life for home and native land.

But whatever the cause might be, that the savages prized the region of the Saco and its tributaries, is beyond question. In the town of Sweden near the principle stream flowing into Highland Lake, as it is called, but by an old time name anything but a euphonious name, are numerous evidences that an Indian village was once situated. Here are mounds of earth from which bones of the aborigines have been taken, together with stone implements, such as hatchets, pestles for pounding or crushing corn in mortars, and gauges, which are said to have been made from a different kind of stone than any that can be found in town today.

Sometime about 1800 or a few years later, a band of Indian hunters was one autumn month encamped near the very spot where these mounds are located. They found the river and lake literally swarming with trout, while otter, beaver and other fur-bearing animals were abundant. For several weeks the hunting and fishing continued with much success as might well be expected under the circumstances, but no game of the larger kinds had as yet been taken, and one morning one of their number, tired of the kind of sport they had been having, started out alone with his flowing piece and two dogs, for a day's hunt to the hills and mountains at the northward. All day long he tramped, but without finding any trace of moose, deer or bear.

As the sun went down behind the hills, he was passing over Sabatis mountain, already referred to, on his way back to camp. Nearing its base he heard stealthy footsteps behind him, and turning he discovered that a large, cat-like animal, called the panther, was following him.

HANOVER.

Oxford Bear Lodge, No. 54, K. of P. held a public installation at Union hall, Saturday evening, Jan. 11. The following officers for the ensuing term were installed by D. D. G. O. Byron S. Tuttle: P. C.—R. H. Hutchins; V. C.—E. B. Martin; M. of W.—Edison Hayford; Sec.—J. A. Williams Barker; R. of S.—Arthur H. Howe; M. of F.—J. Russell.

The Prelate, M. of E. I. G., and O. G. were absent on account of sickness. At the close of the installation exercises a lunch was served in the lower hall, after which Chase's orchestra of four pieces furnished excellent music for dancing, which was enjoyed by young and old until midnight.

Mrs. Sarah Hutobins of Rumford Corner is spending a few days with Mrs. H. N. Howe. Jessie Howe, who is employed in the N. E. Telephone Co.'s office at Rumford Falls, spent Sunday with her parents, Herbert Russell is to run the engine at Bartlett & Tibbitt's mill on Ellis river this winter. He began work last Thursday.

Marion Dyer, who was quite ill with the grippe during the past week, was able to return to her school in Holland A. H. Staples has been confined to the house for the past three weeks with a severe attack of rheumatism. He is somewhat better at this writing but is still unable to move about much.

WEST BUCKFIELD.
Mrs. William Dunn was sick last week. Mr. Elwood has sold a dozen hens to Sallie Thorne. Fred Martin, wife and baby were the guests of S. M. Boney and wife, Sunday.

Mrs. Leslie Cummings spent Thursday at the guest of Mrs. W. H. Heald at Buckfield and Friday at Mrs. H. H. Buck's. A number from this way attended the dance Saturday night at Freeborn Harlow's new hall. Fred and Paul Bennett furnished music.

Mrs. Sieberling and her daughter, Mrs. Lillian Benson, and brother, Herbert Cooper, have been having the grippe. Mrs. Sieberling has tonsillitis now.

New Ruling of Postoffice Department.

We were surprised to see that the Maine Daily Press Association passed resolutions condemning the recent ruling of the post office department regarding second class mail matter and the credit limit given by them. We do not fully understand it. That is, the cause that lead up to such a resolve. It seems to us that the enforcement of the new ruling would be an advantage to the daily paper as most certainly it will be every weekly newspaper in the State, provided it is strictly enforced by the postmasters.

For the law to go into effect Jan. 1st was giving the publishers too short a time to get their list in shape, but with 90 days of grace to prepare for it we cannot see any reason to kick and belabor our senators and congressmen for a change.

We would, however, ask for a strict and impartial enforcement of the ruling after April 1st.

This being given we feel that the publishers of dailies and weeklies have no cause to complain.

Oxford County Liquor Cases.

In Oxford county the costs and expenses of prosecution were $4,138.14, the fines and costs amounted to $2,507.15 and the fines and costs collected were $7,710.01. Ninety-two cases were instituted, one each for homicide and an offense against morality, three each for forgery and counterfeiting, one each for larceny, eight for assault, five for assault and battery, two for nuisance, forty-eight for violation of the liquor law and eight for other offenses.

Cases in Oxford county were disposed as follows during the past year: Quashed one; not pressed on payment of costs, two; not pressed or dismissed, 17; conviction and sentence, 22; acquitted, 44; placed on file, 30; continued, 14; continued for sentence 3; continued and marked "law" one; sentenced to State prison; one; sentenced to county jail and house of correction, 16.

Fire at Brownfield.
The house, ell and stable of Samuel D. Warren of East Brownfield, situated on the main road between the M. G. R. station and the village, was destroyed by fire early Monday morning.

The alarm was given at about one o'clock, and Mrs. Warren, who are aged people, with their son lived in the house. The fire caught around the chimney in the main house and was discovered by Mr. Warren in time to save the lives of the occupants and much of the furniture. The buildings were valued at $2,000, and were insured for about half their value.

The Cough of Consumption

Your doctor will tell you that fresh air and good food are the real cures for consumption. But often the cough is very hard. Hence, we suggest that you ask your doctor about your taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It controls the tickling, quiets the cough.

We publish our formulas. We banish alcohol from our medicines. We urge you to consult your doctor.

One of Ayer's Pills at bedtime will cause an increased flow of bile, and produce a gentle laxative effect the day following. Formulas on each box. Show it to your doctor. One pill at bedtime.

Cure Cholera Morbus
Green or over-ripe fruit will cause it. Johnson's Anodyne Liniment will cure it. An infallible remedy for all similar disorders—cramps, colic, diarrhoea, etc. A few half-teaspoonful doses of will quickly relieve the most severe cases. It's just as sure in curing sore throat, coughs, colds, grip, bronchitis, tonsillitis, and kindred respiratory troubles. If you have a cut, a burn, a bruise or other external ache or pain, a free application of the liniment will reduce the inflammation and drive out the pain quicker than anything else. Keep a bottle in your medicine chest for emergencies.

How to Make a Skating Pond.
Stake out the pond and cut down the sides a foot, so that a uniform depth is obtained. The soil can be thrown back upon the embankments at each side. All weeds and bushes must be cut down below the level of the intended surface of water, for these form disagreeable obstructions when left to freeze in the ice, says American Homes and Gardens. Thick muck soil should now be carted from some nearby swamp and spread evenly over the surface of the pond. Ordinary mud, which is so abundant in many localities, makes an ideal material for this purpose. When first dug from the swamp it is lumpy and hard, and it will be necessary to pulverize it with a harrow after it is spread on the bottom of the pond. If carefully distributed around to a depth of two or three inches the first rainstorm will dissolve it into the right consistency for use. Then with a hoe and rake go over the pond and compact the mud surface so that when it dries it will form a tough, almost water tight skin over the top soil. Even when rain falls on this surface it will not leak through it and disappear. Water can be held in the hollow nearly all winter, and a genuine skating pond is thus obtained at little cost.

Redistricting Maine.
Speculative Political Story of the Future of Second District.
Here is a pretty political forecast story going the rounds in connection with the redistricting of Maine which they say leaves the men in power to result in the division into three instead of four congressional districts, and Oxford County is said to be a pivotal county, Cumberland wishing to take it over joining it with York to constitute the First Congressional district, thus leaving the second district weaker as a Republican stronghold.
In the event of a reduction of the number of Congressional districts to three when the population of the State is estimated at 750,000 this would give the first district as now constituted but 200,000.
The story says that it is apparent that some other county or counties must be added to Cumberland and York to bring them up to 250,000, the required number. Shall Oxford County be taken to do this and be made a part of the First district? Oxford is a strong Republican county and this would be a good thing for the first district and practically insure its being solid Republican under any circumstances. But if this is done what will the good Republicans now living in the Second district say? They will not want to lose Oxford County because it gives them strength.
Oxford County has not had a congressman since the death of the late Sidney Perham represented her in Congress. She will naturally want a congressman and want it right away. Her strength will be enough to be influential in obtaining what she wants and where does this leave the men in Portland who want to go to Congress right away?
How would it do to make a sea shore district, taking York, Cumberland, Sagadahoc, Lincoln and Knox? It is an attractive idea. The combination would be a strong one and would make a strong as strong as it would be with Oxford but here would be a community of interests. All sea shore counties, with the same interests and with the same general needs. They could be easily represented and would make a strong population division all right too. But here comes the rub for the Cumberland County men. There is Charles E. Littlefield now representing a part of this section in Congress. Mr. Littlefield is recognized as being too able a man to be staked to the support of any party or scheme.—[Maine Woodsman.]

EAST OTISFIELD.
Mains—Waterhouse.
A very quiet wedding occurred Wednesday evening, Jan. 1st, at the Free Baptist church, the contracting parties being Amy Waterhouse and Howard Mains of Otisfield. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Lyman Rollins, pastor of that church. The ring service was used.
Mr. and Mrs. Mains departed with many happy congratulations for the future to where the groom resides at Mr. and Mrs. George Bicknell's.
Opposed to Parcel Post.
The commercial travelers who cover the Maine field have joined forces with traveling men elsewhere in opposing the recommendations of postmaster-general for an extension of the parcel post system.
They say that such extension would work to the detriment of the local dealers who would be forced into competition with the mail order houses. The latter can undersell local dealers by sacrificing all profits on a certain line till they have built up a trade. The local dealer must make a reasonable profit on all lines and cannot meet a competition which is willing to sell at a loss in one department, knowing it can be counterbalanced by a gain in another.
The commercial travelers also say that with the machinery now at its command the postal department is pushed to the limit and the addition of a greater parcels post system would retard the prompt system of a first-class mail.
The Maine traveling men have made a strong protest to Congress against acceptance of the postmaster-general's recommendation.

Value of Right Breathing.
Health Comes from Knowing How and What to Breathe.
Dust laden with the germs of consumption or other disease is inhaled by all who use the streets, but disease is not developed unless the germs find conditions suitable for their lodgment and growth.
With people having catarrh there is an ideal culture medium for these germs, as the irritated membrane and weakened tissues is a hot-bed where germs must thrive and multiply until they are numerous and active.
If you have catarrh, you should use the easiest, simplest and quickest cure, the direct method of Hyomei, whose wonderful medicated air is taken in with the air you breathe, directly following the breathing of all germs that have been inhaled, repairing any damage they may have worked and so healing and vitalizing the tissues as to render catarrh and germ infection no longer possible.
The unusual way in which Hyomei is sold should dispel all doubt as to its curative properties, for Frank Kimball, proprietor of the Noyes Drug Store, offers to refund the price to anyone whom it fails to benefit. You do not risk a cent in testing the healing virtues of this breath of life, for with every $1.00 outfit Frank Kimball gives a guarantee to relieve catarrh or money refunded. 2-3

THE "Night Riders" of Kentucky.
Let us have an understanding of what these "night riders" are who have been spreading terror and destruction, life and property of late through sections of Kentucky. Their organization seems to be based upon that of the Ku-Klux which thrived in the South in the chaotic period following the Civil War.
The Ku-Klux, however, devoted most of its attention to terrorizing the negro while the other problem out of no figure in the work of the Kentucky "night riders."
This later organization is the outcome of the long continued struggle between the so-called "white" and "black" and the organization which Kentucky planters have formed for their own interests.

Trained Nurse
Writes a Letter to the People.
"To Whom It May Concern: I am a trained nurse of nine years' experience in hospitals and private cases and for the benefit of the people of Norway I wish you would publish my experience with the cod liver preparation, Vinol.
"I was completely prostrated from overwork and had no appetite, could not sleep, my kidneys, liver and bowels became inactive, and as I grew weaker I could not retain either medicine or food on my stomach, and raised blood. The doctors said my condition was critical and I would probably die.
"As I had seen Vinol prescribed for my patients with such remarkable results, I decided to try it. After the first bottle I began to improve. I continued its use, and soon began to sleep and eat well; every organ in my body was strengthened and became normal until it seemed good to be alive and I was restored to perfect health and strength.
"I advise all my patients who need strength, rich, red blood, and flesh tissue to take Vinol, as it is so far superior to old-fashioned cod liver oil, emulsion or other tonics." Elizabeth M. Cremond, Trained Nurse, Boston, Mass.
In Norway we sell Vinol on a positive guarantee to return money if it fails. Frank P. Stone, Druggist.

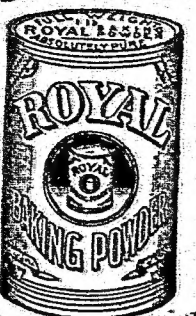

The True Patriotism.
Patriotism is an element that has entered largely into the life of every nation great or small, civilized or uncivilized, throughout the world. For a nation has never become great or prosperous or has excelled in any particular line, except through the patriotism and love of its own people. Take all the great nations of ancient and modern times which have contributed so much to progress and education, and we find that each and all had their patriots, men who loved their country better than anything else in the world and who were ready at all times to give their time, their work and even their lives if it was required, in order that their country might continue to grow and prosper. Where is the American, who traveling in a foreign land perhaps thousands of miles from home, has not felt his heart beat a little quicker, his breath come a little faster, at the sight of the old flag and the memories of home and country that it brings back to him.
America! How dear is that name to every true American heart. And well it may be, for what other country has had such a history as ours in the brief span of its existence? Beginning with the thirteen original colonies scattered along the Atlantic coast, it has extended westward to the Pacific and the islands beyond and has become one of the most powerful and wealthiest nations of the earth. How important then that every American citizen should take an active interest and part in the government of this great nation, to see that its laws are just, that the government is kept clear from corruption and that its people are protected from oppression and wrong.
Who is the true American? Who is the true patriot? The true patriot will not be bound by party or creed. He will ever have in view the highest good of his country, its state and town and will ever seek its welfare, casting aside vote where he sincerely believes it will do the most good. Although recognizing the necessity of acting with some political party in state or national affairs he will never hesitate to change from one party to another or to vote a split ticket if by so doing he believes he can further advance the interests of his country. If elected to office he will ever strive to do his duty regardless of party bosses or of their effect upon the party in general.
While it may be true that party organizations have their places as a means of carrying out certain principles or of nominating candidates for office, of what use is all this partisanship in state, local or municipal affairs? What difference whether an official, be a Republican, Democrat or Socialist in his political views, if he is capable and honest? Let us do away with all partisanship in state and municipal affairs, and in national affairs use the political party only as a means to an end. Let us do all in our power to hasten the happy day when party spirit shall everywhere give way to patriotism, party spirit to civic spirit and sectionalism to nationalism.
True patriotism, in this enlightened age does not necessarily mean giving our lives for our country, however commendable that may be or might have been in the past. It does not mean that we should love our own country and hate all others for the people of savage nations are often as patriotic as that. But rather it means to love our own country and to love all others for true love is universal in its scope. To live for our country, to ever seek its highest good, to bring its government as far as possible with the best of men, while at the same time in just the degree that we seek the highest good of our own country, we are seeking the good of all others and hastening the happy day when the great brotherhood of man shall be fully realized and earth will become a fairer and better place in which to live.
We are proud of our glorious republic stretching from sea to sea, with its magnificent cities, its fertile farms, its churches and schools and everything that makes life bright and happier. We are proud of its history, of its people, of the many brave men who have given their lives that the nation might live. And although there are many problems to be solved, many evils to be overcome in our national life, every true American faces the future with confidence and hope, feeling sure that these great economic and social problems will be solved in the best possible way, and that America will continue to grow better and grander, a beacon light to the oppressed in other lands, a land of contentment and happiness for its own people.

Dairies Clean.
Dr. Twitchell Defends the Dairies of Maine.
That the dairies conditions in Maine are sanitary, healthful and such as to make Maine equal to the best of the product of any other state; that the charges made by the reputed agent of the Massachusetts board of health cannot apply at all to the dairy industry in general; and that criticism of the industry by the board is based on prejudice and the statements of Dr. G. M. Twitchell of Auburn in an interview with the Lewiston Journal. Dr. Twitchell's duties have called him out among the farmers of all the New England states for many years and he is thoroughly qualified to pass judgment on conditions here and in other states. Few men in the State are better acquainted with the milk producers or better know the true state of affairs.
It is evident that the farmers of Maine engaged in milk production have been decidedly stirred up by the charges made by this agent of the Massachusetts board of health, who for the past two years has been engaged in investigating conditions in all parts of the State and to Boston. It is claimed that his investigations in this State were confined to a few barns in Gorham, Buxton and North Berwick and that his report was based on these.
Dr. Twitchell scores Secretary Young of the Maine board of health and other officials for their statements claiming that they were talking without due investigation. The industry is worth from five to eight millions of dollars to the State today, and to criticize it without weighing carefully the facts is unjust to the State and the farmers.
"I am not surprised," says Dr. Twitchell, "at this charge, for it is the same as was heaped far and wide over Massachusetts two years ago when the representative of the board of health of that state began his inspection."
"I had the pleasure of a long conversation with him then and found that the standard set by the ultra scientific bodies was to be applied, barns with cellars were to be condemned and anything short of ideal conditions criticized. Since then there have been some modifications but the object is to require that every man selling milk to go to Boston, as milk or cream, meet the arbitrary conditions established by the State board of health. This agent has now reached Maine and after going over a few barns in Gorham, Buxton and North Berwick, declares that these dairies are distinctly inferior to those of any other state. For one I do not believe this statement faithful, and I am sure the opinion of the agent but is a part of a news article put up in sensational style. Maine will compare favorably with any eastern or middle state in character and cleanliness of her barns and tie-ups, or methods of shipping milk. I believe this can be justly claimed without exalting in the least those who do not yet realize the necessity of modernized methods. You must not forget that the barn has made a long stride in the care of the dairy stock and that improvement is going on all the while. This is true of every state, for the interests closest to the farmers are helping in this direction."

Deserted a Three Weeks' Old Baby.
Charged with the desertion of her three weeks old baby last fall, Mrs. Addie Batchelder of East Dixfield, was arrested Thursday and brought to Auburn where she left her baby with Mrs. Bailey where she had room while she went shopping with her claimed to be husband, who was known as Mr. Perkins, a traveling man. Mrs. Batchelder is a widow and well known in East Dixfield. She felt the humiliation of her arrest keenly, but stated that it was not wholly unexpected. The man has not been located. She had been working as a domestic at Chesterfield Hill.
Elmina A. Brown of East Hebron has been appointed teacher in the North Auburn primary school. She is a graduate of Hebron Academy and has had seven years' experience as a teacher. She takes the place of Agnes Beare resigned.

Queer Maine Brook Names.
Caustic Wit of Early Settlers Revealed in Naming Streams.
The report on bridges, filed with the state highway commissioners at Augusta reveals many instances of a caustic wit among the early settlers who had the naming of the streams. All the bridges in the State six feet or more in length, are reported with possibly an inaccurate here or there in the figures made by the municipal officers who prepare the statements for the cities, towns and plantations.
South Berwick in the southwest corner of the State reports a bridge across Love brook. There may be no connection between love and other things, but further along in the report from the same town, the commissioner learned of the existence of Labor-in-vain brook. North Berwick contributes Nequataquit brook to the collection. Wells reports Webhannet, and Saco perpetuates the name of some ancient festivity in Goose Fir brook. An ancient local rebellion is brought to the mind of the Oxford "beers" when they hear of Mutiny brook in Waterford. Roxbury suggestively reports Whiskey stream followed by Noisy stream, Grannypole stream in Topsham, and Shingishine creek in the adjoining town of Hiram. Fug brook is in Athens and must have received its name long before the snub-nosed dogs were introduced into Somerset County.
Lemon stream in New Portland is the opportunity of the joke who is fond of present day slang and the same town must some time have witnessed a sanguinary disturbance for it has a Killenbrook. Moscow ambitiously reports that it possesses the Gulf stream, which must be that famous current's recent approach to Russia.
Home brook is in Cambridge, and three of the names of brooks in the town are Ike, Cosh and Jimmy, who are certainly very near home. Scootarsa stream is in Medford and has no connection with the famous Medford beverage. Stinking brook is in the adjoining town of Milo.
Peppermint brook is in Monson, and the winds waft its fragrance easterly to Pittsford. Eberhazz stream is in Duxford brook in Madakaska implies a threat to "do for" somebody, but is merely the surname of a French settler given to the stream near his clearing. Greenbush has Halfway brook, but the selection was not required to tell what points it is. OXFORD.

Floor Work of K. of P. Magnificent.

Craigie Lodge, K. of P., held a public installation of officers in Robinson hall, Tuesday evening, Jan. 14th. Walter L. Gray of South Paris was installing officer and the work was done without a hitch. The floor work was magnificent, the men showing up well in their bright uniforms and their step and alignment being almost perfect. The sword drill by eight Knights was a particularly bright spot of the entertainment and was received with prolonged applause by the large audience present.

Grand Keeper of R. & R., Wilbur E. Ricker, of Portland was present and being a very enthusiastic Knight spoke at some length on the obligations and power of Knighthood, of the influence for good which the different fraternal organizations exert, and of the far reaching benefit derived from the affiliation of men in a just and worthy cause. He also spoke warmly of the military department, that it was justly winning a place in Pythian history.
His remarks received the utmost attention, and as he is somewhat of a humorist his witty sayings and stories frequently brought forth smiles and applause.

Walter L. Gray made some very appropriate remarks, emphasizing the fact that the drama, Damon and Pythias, was one of the most interesting and beautifully constructed stories he had ever read.

At the installation everybody was invited up to the stage of Temperance hall, where a hountiful treat was served. The tables were quickly cleared and during the next hour eager talk and happy laughter were intermingled with the demands upon the commissary department.

After supper adjournment to the hall below was in order and dancing was indulged in until a late hour. Music was furnished by Edwards' orchestra—Hornet, Harry Delany, trombone; Lulu Stone, pianist. Although a very stormy night, many were present from out of town, and each one seemed to do their utmost to make the occasion an enjoyable one.

It being the 10th anniversary of the institution of this lodge, perhaps a short history of the facts concerning during that time will be interesting. Craigie Lodge, K. of P., of the Grand Domain of Maine was instituted on Wednesday evening, Jan. 5, 1898, by G. C. Edward Reynolds with 52 charter members. The Rank of Page was conferred by Hamlin Lodge of South Paris, the Rank of Esquire by St. Elmo Lodge of Mechanic Falls and the Rank of Knight by Pennesseewaig Lodge of Norway. Orrin Stevens was the first Chancellor Commander. The officers were installed by D. G. C. Kenney of South Paris.

During its ten years of existence the lodge has initiated 104 members, 7 received by transfer card, making a total of 111. From this number the lodge has lost one by withdrawal, one by transfer, two by death and 13 by suspension, leaving a membership of 94 in good standing at present time. During its ten years of existence the lodge has received for initiation fees $1467, for dues $2762. It has paid out in sick benefits $312, for watching with the sick $192, for funeral benefits $40. The lodge has also expended about $700 for paraphernalia, yet with all its expenditures it has a goodly balance on right side of ledger.

Arthur Bumpus of Auburn was home over Sunday.
Edwin J. Parrott was in Portland, Saturday, on business.

Mrs. Louisa Richmond visited her niece, Lina Carr, in Portland, Saturday. Charles Smith living on High street is reported quite ill and insane part of the time.

Anson J. Holden was quite ill and confined to the house during the first part of the week.

Howard Farrington is working at the power house during the illness of Mr. Wood.

George J. Parrott has been confined to the house two weeks with a severe attack of the grip.

Mrs. Georgia Wardwell of Auburn spent Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Chadbourne.

Davis B. Wood has been confined to the house during the past week and under the care of a physician.

On account of the shortage of power and the crippled condition of its working force, the basket factory did not run last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Davis of Highland Farm are confined to the house, Mr. Davis with grip and Mrs. Davis with neuralgia.

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bonney, living in the Oxford house corner of Main and Pleasant streets, has diphtheria. The house has been quarantined.

The fishing on Lake Thompson through the ice proved to be better and each day large strings of togs are taken from its waters. A party of eight fishermen from Nashua, N. H., and Lewiston were at Lake View hotel last week. They fished the surrounding ponds and carried away a goodly quantity of fish. They were a jolly crowd and were loud in their praise of Oxford hospitality.

The annual meeting of the Oxford Building Association was held at office of Robinson Mfg Co., Wednesday evening, Jan. 8. The yearly interest was paid and $100 paid on principal. The following officers were elected:
Pres.—John B. Robinson.
Sec.—Edwin Parrott, Geo. Jones, A. S. Fuller and James Kay.
The directors were instructed as a committee to examine the building and report what repairs are needed.

Charlotte E. Fisher, who has been the owner of the Oxford Spring House since 1898, died Monday in Boston. She has been in poor health for a long time. About the middle of December she went to Boston and had an operation performed from which she did not fully recover. The funeral was held Tuesday at 1.30 p. m. by the Massachusetts Cremation Society. The body was cremated.

Fore Street.

Al O. Twitchell and Rev. W. M. Snow have returned from their vacation in the woods much benefited by the camp life.

E. E. Twitchell had the misfortune to lose his best horse Monday. She fell, injuring her so she had to be killed.

Frank Lovring has taken a logging job at Norway Lake and has moved into camp.

The boys and girls have improved the fine skating by moonlight or lantern light every pleasant evening.

KEZAR FALLS.

Boynton-Turner.

Violet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Boynton, was united in marriage, on the evening of Jan. 1st, to Claude H. Turner of North Berwick, Rev. H. A. Foster performing the ceremony which can fittingly be described as a quiet "home wedding," also a very pretty one. About fifty intimate friends were present. Mr. and Mrs. Turner have gone to North Berwick for a while but their many friends here hope they will ultimately return and plant their vine and fig tree in Kezar Falls.

Mrs. Mary H. Potter requires the services of a trained nurse.

Mrs. Fred French of Cambridge has been called here by the illness of her brother, John Ridlon.

Sylvanus Cobb's Desk.

Last week we published an item that John Woodman had a desk which he wrote his stories.

"I don't believe," says E. N. S. the Swett Shoe Company, "that Sylvanus Cobb would do his writing of ordinary table when he had such a desk as this one."

He was speaking of the desk which he used in his store for a time. It is a large, substantial desk, several drawers, and commodious.

The desk came into the store of Wm. H. Whitcomb many ago, was used by the firm of W. & S. Swett, and later by Mr. Whitcomb, then by Whitcomb & Smith the Smiley Shoe Store and now E. N. Swett Shoe store.

We would be inclined to agree Mr. Swett in his statement.

Annie Hamlin spent Sunday in Mrs. L. P. Swett was in the village past week.
